NOTE

The subject of the evaluation and classification of fiction has for several years past been discussed very generally by librarians, library associations and library clubs. Both the value as literature and the educational and ethical value of the works of great novelists such as Dickens, Thackeray, Scott, Hugo, Balzac and Hawthorne have long been recognized, but of late years the floods of ephemeral fiction have submerged the instructiveness of many of the lesser writers.

At a meeting of the Keystone State Library Association, held at Harrisburg in 1901, a committee consisting of Messrs. Joseph G. Rosengarten, William M. Stevenson and John Thomson, was appointed to report on the question of the classification and evaluation of fiction. At a meeting of the same association, held at Williamsport in 1902, the committee made a report, in which, after affirming their belief in the utility and value of classifying fiction, they recommended that an actual trial should be made in some library, the classification used to be based as far as possible upon Mr. Dewey's "decimal system." A committee consisting of Messrs. William M. Stevenson, John Thomson and Albert R. Durham, was appointed to take the task in hand, secure the co-operation of some library and report results at the next meeting of the Association.

The Free Library of Philadelphia offered to make the experiment at the Wagner Institute Branch. As this Branch was over ten years old, it was considered a fortunate selection, the more especially as it possessed a large number of books originally in some of the older small libraries of the city, and thus probably had a more varied collection of fiction than the newer Branches. It was felt that by analyzing and classifying every work of fiction in this Branch, a better test of the true value of fiction would be made than would be possible by working on any selected list or lists. This has been done with a few exceptions, and these exceptions are mentioned at the end of the Bulletin.

The work was commenced without delay, the books being classified under the class headings "Philosophical," "Ethical," "Sociological," "Religious," etc., these classes being resolvable into Dewey numbers; i. e., "Philosophical"—100; "Ethical"—100; "Religious"—200; "Sociological"—300; etc. Small rubber stamps of the class headings (i. e., "Philosophical," "Ethical," etc.) were made and by this means, the headings were attached to the outside labels of the books themselves, as well as to the catalogue cards, thus assisting readers in their selection of books.

The present Bulletin is a dictionary catalogue of the works of prose fiction contained in the Wagner Institute Branch; each work considered susceptible of classification (i. e., those that are distinctly didactic, controversial or historical) being supplemented under its author entry by a short statement of its theme or purpose, its period, etc., and in the cases of those which have been classified as historical, the names of some of the principal historical characters in the novel have been added. A short explanatory note also appears under the class entry of each book. The books classified as "Biographical," in addition to appearing under the heading "Biographical," appear also in appendices to the various divisions of the heading "Historical."

To the residue, containing, of course, a great number of the best of all works of fiction, where thought desirable or helpful to readers and students, supplementary headings have been assigned, in the form of a descriptive note:—

| Author. | Title. | Note. |
|------------------------|-------------------|----------------------|
| Björnson, Björnstjerne | Synnöve Solbakken | Norwegian life. |
| Marryat, Frederick | Jacob Faithful | Sea tales. |
| Milford, Mary Russell | Our village | English country life |

but beyond lists appearing under the headings "Norwegian life," etc., it has not been deemed necessary to insert further information.

Following the local usage of the Branch, all entries have been made under the author's real name when known, while a cross reference has been inserted under the pseudonym.

The abbreviation "juv" appears in the catalogue, only in cases where all copies of a book have been placed in the juvenile room. It should be borne in mind, however, that copies of many books such as Scott's "Ivanhoe" and Cooper's "Spy," are placed in the juvenile room, although they are not marked "juv" in this Bulletin, as other copies are to be found in the main library room.

The books which have not received any of the classifications have been marked "General." Possibly "Unclassified" might have been a better designation.

A list of the classes derived from the Dewey decimal system and also of the supplementary headings is given on page v.

On the suggestion of several friends and librarians, who have been consulted on the "unrevised" proof of this Bulletin, copies of which were submitted at the Gettysburg meeting, the subject entries of novels classified as "Ethical" have been dispensed with, and the descriptive notes to such novels for the most part omitted. An index to the historical and legendary characters mentioned in the notes has been added. While the notes do not pretend to give complete lists of the historical characters who appear in the novels, an endeavor has been made to include in them, the names of the more prominent of the historical personages who appear as actual characters, as differentiated from those who are only introduced by comment. The amount of work entailed by this addition has been the cause of the delay which has occurred in putting the Bulletin finally through the press.

It is proposed to make this Bulletin the basis of a report to be made to the Keystone Library Association at their meeting to be held in October of the present year. The report will recommend the formation of a committee to continue the work and to issue, not later than 1906, a classified and annotated list of the best ten thousand novels written in, or translated into, the English language and published prior to 1903.

I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my thanks to Miss Marion V. Smith, the First Assistant of the Wagner Institute Branch, for her assistance, not only in attending to the detail of the work, but also for valuable help throughout.

INDEX

TO THE HISTORICAL, AND LEGENDARY CHARACTERS MENTIONED AS APPEARING IN THE NOVELS.

NOTE.—In the index the "Dictionary of national biography" has been followed as an authority for the names of British subjects, Appletons' "Cyclopædia of American biography" has been consulted for the spelling of American names, and Thomas's "Universal pronouncing dictionary of biography and mythology" for the names of persons of other nationalities. To save space only the more important titles of nobility have been given, and given names, excepting the first in each instance, have been indicated by their initial letters. Maiden names, where inserted, have been indicated by their initial letters in curved brackets, thus: (M.) or (N.)
